

Your privacy for the WEPP & Sussex LMNS website

Our privacy policy

Your privacy is important to us. This privacy policy covers what we collect and how we use, disclose, transfer and store your information.

What information do we collect when you use the LMNS website?

When you use the LMNS website, we use various technologies to collect information automatically – such as your IP address. This is commonplace across all internet services to enable the investigation of issues such as service availability and the identification of malicious use. This information is then kept in our internet access logs.

We also collect some personal information directly – for example, when you send us a message through our contact form.

Cookies

Our website uses cookies. These are small files saved on your phone, tablet or computer when you visit a website. They store information about how you use the website, such as the pages you visit.

The law states that we can store cookies on your device if they are strictly necessary for the operation of this site. For all other types of cookies, we need your permission before we can use them on your device.

Video content

The NHS website video content – whether viewed on the website, in emails or embedded in third-party sites – are streamed to users by a third-party company, Brightcove.

See the Brightcove privacy policy (<https://www.brightcove.com/legal/privacy/>) for more information about how they collect and use data about viewers of our videos.

Third-party services

If you turn on cookies that measure website, use (on our cookies page) we will make use of Google Analytics. For more information about how this service process your data see Google Analytics privacy policy (<https://policies.google.com/privacy>)
